The Honors Curriculum Or, What Exactly Have I Gotten Myself Into?

Christ and Culture? Tutorials? Liberal Learning Portfolio? While the prospect of actually understanding these classes, not to mention passing them, may seem a little daunting now, all will become clear (hopefully by the end of this article). Dr. Riggs and other faculty members have spent a great deal of time and energy modifying and refining the curriculum for the JWHC since it was created a decade ago. Each of the courses you will take has been carefully selected because of its unique contribution to your liberal arts education. Individually, each of the classes is meaningful, but placed in the context of the broader education you will receive at IWU and in the Honors College, they each play an integral role. In this piece, we will go step by step through the initial requirements for the JWHC and give explanations.

JWS Evan Wible '11 is a little stressed about the work he has to do, but he made it successfully through his first year, and so will you!

HONORS HUMANITIES CORE (12 hrs)<sup>1</sup>

- UNV 180 HC Becoming World Changers 3
- HST 180 HC Humanities World Civilization 3
- PHL 180 HC Humanities Philosophy 3
- ENG 180 HC Humanities World Literature 3

First up is the Honors Humanities Core, which is a total of 12 hours, made up of four classes. These are sometimes referred to as the "180s" because of their course numbers. These are classes that every student at IWU takes, usually during his or her first two years. Each 180 is taken as an Honors course, meaning the section must be "HC" and it is capped at 15 students.

Professor Riggs teaches UNV 180 each fall. This class is always taken during a student's first semester on campus, whether a member of the Honors College or not. UNV180 is meant to serve as an introduction to your collegiate education and will cover a wide range of topics, from basic tenets of Christianity to current issues. The other Humanities courses, World Civ, Philosophy, and World Lit, give students a foundation in the important events, themes, and pieces of literature that have shaped the world in which we live today. Each class has unique projects and assignments that let you interact with the material in a variety of ways. For example, in ENG 180 the students work together in groups during the semester to write and perform a play. We offer these courses every semester, to ensure each JWS has the opportunity to take them.

HONORS RESEARCH TUTORIALS (6 hrs)*****

The Honors Research Tutorials (HRT) are classes that provide students with an opportunity to do hands-on research. This course serves as a useful and creative introduction to the world of academic research. The class consists of a professor integrating students into his or her research pursuits.. The students are given semester-long projects that they complete in groups.

This class can be taken for one or three credits. The students can take HRT in any combination as long as a minimum of six hours are completed. We encourage students to begin taking these courses during the second semester of their freshman year. By taking these classes early, students are given a chance to see first-hand how research is both initiated and completed. This experience will be useful during the Honors Scholarship Project, which comes into play during the junior or senior year.

Last semester, Dr. Ream taught a course about the religious history of the 1960s. Students in this class made trips to other universities in the area to gather information. They conducted interviews with personnel and explored archived documents to research the institutions and important events that took place during the 1960s. One of the groups' paper from the class was submitted to the Indiana Historical Magazine for the possibility of publication. While the entire process was intimidating at first, the students learned a lot from their time in the course and felt as though they had completed a substantial project.

HONORS ELECTIVES (6 hrs): Students will complete 6 hours of honors electives (either honors sections of general education electives or HNR electives).<sup>1</sup>

In order to fulfill the requirements for the Honors Electives, students typically take some of their general education courses as Honors sections. For example, students might enroll in the Honors sections of Old and New Testament (courses all students at IWU will take). We have incredible profs teaching these courses and students love them. Because the Honors sections delve deep into the riches of biblical interpretation, they can be pretty challenging, but extremely rewarding.

A class taught by Dr. Riggs that many students have enjoyed is The History of the Muslim-Christian Encounter (which counts as a gen. ed. Social Science elective). During this class, the students read texts that relate how Christians and Muslims have interacted throughout history, from the seventh century to the present. Because most students do not know much about Islam, they are often surprised by all they discover during the semester. In the past, we have even been able to set up a teleconference with Muslim students in the Palestinian territories to talk about the topics addressed in the course.

You can see which courses are offered at IWU through the Wildcat Page (wildcat.indwes.edu). Follow the "Academics" link and then click on "Course Schedule." You can find out what classes are offered each semester by searching for a specific division, a certain time, or even your favorite professor.

CHRIST & CULTURE ELECTIVES (6 hrs): Students will complete 6 hours of HNR courses that challenge them to engage society and culture in the light of their Christian faith. Any of these courses taken beyond the distribution requirement may be applied as Honors Electives. These courses may be repeated.

Courses such as the following:

- HNR 100 Honors College Forum 1
- HNR 215 News & Views through the Eyes of Faith 1
- LDR 255 Honors Leadership Practicum 1

The Christ and Culture Electives were created to give students a chance to interact with the world in which we live from a Christian perspective. These courses are usually offered as one hour classes. Students can take these courses as many semesters as they wish, in any combination, to earn a minimum of six credits. Because the course content changes each semester, it is never the same class twice.

Honors College Forum (HNR 100) consists of two parts. First, students read a thought-provoking book, participate in discussion groups about the text, and attend a culminating event with other students in Forum to ponder the book's theme. This is known as the Plenary Event. The second part of forum is a series of events students choose to attend such as lectures, cultural events, plays, or musicals. Sometimes these events are held off-campus and the Honors College pays for all costs associated with these events. Forum has been a very popular part of the JWHS for students and is a great way to meet other JWS.

News and Views (HNR 215) is a course during which students take a close look at current events happening all over the world. Sometimes, this class is focused on a certain topic, such as AIDS in Africa or nuclear armament, and the students dig deeply into the numerous issues and problems associated with the topic. The theme for the course is dependent on who is teaching it and some professors may choose to focus more broadly on any important events taking place.

The final course offered in this section is Honors Leadership Practicum (LDR 255). Students who either work in the JWHS office or serve as an HCSA Senator can earn a credit for being in those leadership positions. Other students can take this course and assist with service learning projects such as academic enrichment events for the Marion Community Schools (a program in which JWS organize activities for 3rd-5th graders emphasizing the importance of learning for a life well-lived).

LIBERAL LEARNING & LIFE CALLING PORTFOLIO (6 hrs)*****

- Five Semesters of LLC Tutorials (5 hrs)
- Capstone Course (1 hr)

The Liberal Learning and Life Calling (LLC) Portfolio is a personal project that students begin in UNV180. The portfolio challenges students to deepen their understanding of the Christian faith, explore the nature of their Kingdom-of-God vocation, and translate their collegiate learning experiences into an edifying liberal arts education. After the World Changers course, students continue to develop, re-evaluate, and edit their portfolio in successive semesters through LLC tutorials. The LLC experience culminates in the Capstone course which is taken during the senior year. If taken seriously, the LLC experience will help students to cultivate exceptional intellectual and spiritual growth during their time at IWU and to establish habits and skills that will foster enriching lives in Christ.

Meet Andrea...

NAME: Andrea Rahman

AGE: 20      YEAR: Junior

MAJOR: English Education

HOMETOWN: Princeton, IN

FAVORITE
VERSE: Psalm 27:4
One thing I ask of the LORD,
this is what I seek:
that I may dwell in the house of the LORD
all the days of my life,
to gaze upon the beauty of the LORD
and to seek him in his temple.

Favorite aspect of the Honors College so far:

I really enjoy the smaller classes and in-depth coursework. I learned more in my Honors Gen. Ed. classes than my other Gen. Ed. classes, and I was able to get to know my classmates better.

What do you love about IWU?

I feel that the faculty and students really contribute to a sense of purpose at IWU. I believe that God calls students to come here, and that students graduate IWU with a strong sense of direction for their lives.

What are you involved in on campus?

I work as an Admissions Associate, and I am the president of Doulos (Acting on AIDS).

What do you do in your free time?

I'm pretty laid-back and like hanging out with my friends. I like to be outdoors, read books, watch movies, play card/board games, etc.

Do you have any advice for incoming freshmen?

It's easy to feel the need to be in leadership or take on responsibilities during your freshman year. But I would suggest taking it easy freshman year and making new friends. Many times you will discover that you have different interests or passions in college than you had in high school, so take your time and enjoy the college experience your freshman year. College is your time to explore new things and figure out what God is calling you to do with fewer distractions from friends and family.

Keep your focus on Jesus at all times, not what you think you need to do in your relationship with Him (that's trying to do things in your own power). Break all the boxes of "what can or cannot be accomplished" that you put God or yourself in, and don't put others into boxes based on appearances or first impressions. I have many close friendships that did not start with an immediate connection.

I hope you will keep this quote in mind as you begin to determine God's calling for you: "The place God calls you to is the place where your deep gladness and the world's deep hunger meet." – Frederick Buechner

Meet Andrew...

NAME: Andrew Cuthbert

AGE: 20

YEAR: Sophomore

MAJOR: Biblical Literature and International and Community Development

HOMETOWN: Dowagiac, MI (the Dogpatch)

LIFE VERSE: Isaiah 26:9a "My soul yearns for you in the night; my spirit within me earnestly seeks you" --- there is no greater call in life that to love the Lord and authentically seek after him with all I have."

Favorite aspect of Honors College so far:

The community of people who aren't willing to give anything but their best to the Lord.

What do you love about IWU?

Andrew Vernon, Kelsey Thill, Melissa Morgan, Cory Sprunger, Jade Avelis, and the rest of the great community of people.

What are you involved in on campus?

SGO, unit chaplain, intramurals, campus golf, Frisbee with Andrew Vernon.

What do you do in your free time?

Sports, try to play guitar, play ping pong like a child prodigy, bond with people in a lot of different ways.

Do you have any advice for incoming freshmen?

We all know we're supposed to love the Lord with all our heart, mind, and soul... Well, you need to struggle with that and refuse anything less than a relationship with the Lord that changes and amazes you everyday.

Celebration of Scholarship

Indiana Wesleyan University promotes and supports research and creative projects as critical avenues for fostering world-changing character, scholarship and leadership among our faculty and student body. Consequently, the university sets aside a week each spring for a Celebration of Scholarship, which showcases the achievements of undergraduate scholars and their faculty mentors. Through a large and diverse schedule of oral and poster presentations, the campus community is treated to the fruits of student-faculty collaboration in research and inquiry. The Celebration of Scholarship also challenges faculty and students to think more deeply about what it means to be a Christ-centered community of academic excellence at events such as the "Faith and Learning Luncheon."

Celebration of Scholarship is where most of you will present your undergraduate research and creative projects (HNR497-498).

Talk with your RA or RD for more information about your residence hall's RHA.

Want to know what's going on at IWU? A great way to hear the latest news is to attend the weekly Student Government Organization (SGO) meetings, held at 10PM on Tuesdays in the Globe Theater. All students are welcome to attend. The Student Government Organization (SGO) represents the total student body on issues and information concerning student welfare and services. The organization's purpose is to promote service and positive welfare of the students. SGO also distributes significant funds to student organizations in support of their mission and activities. SGO is comprised of a: President, Executive cabinet, student organization representatives and a Senate. Elections are held each spring.

Leadership Spotlight: Ashley Davison

North Hall RA

I am so excited you have decided to join us at IWU and be part of the John Wesley Honors College! You have no idea how incredible the journey is that you are beginning. Get ready! But please don't wish away the summer with your excitement because I still want to enjoy the rest of mine. :) You'll be here soon enough and then we'll all be meeting for real, but for now, let me introduce myself. Hi, I'm Ashley. I am a sophomore studying psychology. Let's start with this...a few of my favorites: dark chocolate, coffee, and almonds, Africa (I am partial to Zimbabwe) and maps, driving, the color green, poetry, old books and teeth whitening. Okay, seriously, enough about me. :) I hope we have the chance to meet and then you can share a few of your favorites, maybe at McConn...I'll even swipe.

This year I will be a Resident Assistant (RA) in North Hall which is the mentoring dorm and I am living on the Eastside which is for freshmen. North Hall is unique because its Westside is for upperclassmen who are then paired with freshmen to offer guidance, friendship and encouragement as the college adventure begins. How cool?!?! This is North Hall's second year so we're excited to continue traditions like Kake 'N Karaoke and themed floor parties to name a few. I lived on Eastside last year and it was an amazing experience. Our Resident Director (RD), Sarah Beth, is wonderful and North Hall is an awesome community of sisters. Just wait until you meet the leadership this year--we are one unique and silly staff. God is doing and will be faithful to continue to do awesome things in NH.

If you are already planning on living in North Hall I am so excited to meet you! Even if you're living somewhere else I hope you'll still wander on over to North Hall and meet the ladies of Eastside.

As your summer comes to a close and you prepare to come you are in my prayers. And I'm serious, I really hope we have a chance to meet and the offer for coffee is always open. I'm excited for you. God is good and big and this place will be part of His story for you.

God's love,

Ashley
