

The Freshman Perspective

The Freshman Orientation Newsletter for John Wesley Scholars

Volume 3, Issue 2

Welcome JWHC Class of 2013!

Imagine: In four years, the picture of your graduating class will grace the front page of the Freshman Perspective. The year 2013 probably seems like a far-off date, but the next four years will pass more quickly than you expect. Just think about your time in high school; those four years likely flew by, and now you are a graduate awaiting the new adventures of college!

To help you make the most of your time at Indiana Wesleyan University and in the John Wesley Honors College, this issue includes information about a host of opportunities to explore, both within the JWHC and around campus. Finding ways to connect with others — both inside and outside of class — will also enrich your college experience. In these pages, you'll meet several current John Wesley Scholars and another batch of incoming students. You'll soon be sitting with your fellow students in UNV-180, but we hope you enjoy getting to know each other a little now.

Honors College Student Association (HCSA)

A Message from Your 2009-2010 President

Hello Freshmen!!!

Welcome to IWU and the John Wesley Honors College! My name is Anastasia, and I am the president of the Honors College Student Association (HCSA). As members of the JWHC, you are automatically a part of the HCSA. The HCSA plans a variety of social, academic, service, and chapel events for Honors College students and the IWU community as a whole. You can dress your best for a 1920's party complete with a record player and Roaring Twenties lingo, or you can join in a campus-wide fast to benefit the Marion community — and that is just the stuff we planned last year. We are here to serve you, and we try and have a lot of fun while we do it. So, we encourage YOU to get involved. We can use freshmen senators, but also ideas, volunteers, and enthusiasm. If you have any questions, be sure and email me (annastasia.bonczyk@indwes.edu) or track me down on campus.

I am excited to meet all of you in the fall and welcome you in person. In the meantime, have a fantastic summer, and I hope you get a chance do something a little crazy before you enter the world of college and adulthood. ☺ -Anastasia Bonczyk

Mission Statement of the Honors College Student Association (HCSA)

The Honors College Student Association is a student organization that seeks both to cultivate community among John Wesley Scholars and to model, reinforce, and enrich the academic atmosphere at Indiana Wesleyan University.

The HCSA will accomplish this by providing spiritual, social, and service opportunities oriented toward fostering relationships within the Honors College and by creating, organizing, and implementing various means through which the Honors College can enhance the greater academic community of IWU.

A Message from Your 2009-2010 Vice President

Hello JWHC Class of 2013!

Congrats on being accepted into IWU and the John Wesley Honors College! You all are undoubtedly remarkable individuals who have worked many long, hard hours in the classroom and outside the classroom in order to fully embrace the life God has for each one of you. This next part of your life journey will be some of the most exciting times you will ever experience. I encourage you to take advantage of every moment you spend during your college years here. Make it memorable.

At around this time last year, I was in the same position you are in currently. My senior year in high school was wrapping up, and I was contemplating my immediate future over the next few years at Indiana Wesleyan. I have to admit: I was more than a little nervous about being in the Honors College. Being a homeschooler all my life, I had never taken any AP or "honors courses" that public school kids take. I wondered how I of all people could handle the workload of a college-level honors course in addition to the normal pressures of being a college student on my own for the first time. Thankfully, God eased my fears quickly as I began my freshman year that fall.

I still remember that first week of the semester. It was somewhat hard to keep my head from spinning with all the information that was coming at me at once. Class schedules, tax forms, and book titles occupied my thoughts as I tried to make sure I was doing all the right things. As I was getting oriented to the IWU atmosphere, I met some of my classmates and teachers, and I quickly connected with them not only on an intellectual level, but on a spiritual one as well. Here are people who really want to please God with their lives, I thought. They want to seek God in everything they do, by challenging themselves to push further and dig deeper into who God is and what he has to show us through his creation. From the first day of classes, I was enraptured by the deep, impactful discussions we had through the Honors College. My passion for learning was lit by my professors like Dr. Riggs and Dr. Lennox, as well as the other members of the JWHC community. I wanted to know more, not for the sake of my own intellectual piety, but so that in some way I could look past the mud of ignorance that this fallen world puts in front of us and find the jewels of God's truth. In this way, I could understand more of what it means to be a part of this wonderfully mysterious story of God's love, this amazing Christian Narrative. God has blessed me immensely through the Honors College, and I am so excited you guys have this opportunity to be in it.

I look forward to meeting you all in the fall.

In Christ's love,
Aaron Morrison

Residence Hall Associations

There is a Residence Hall Association (RHA) within each residence area. The RHA is active in the formation of community within the residence halls and apartments through innovative activities and community involvement. Through active participation in these activities, students gain an understanding of the concept of community while forging life-long friendships. Talk with your RA or RD for more information about your residence hall's RHA. Or visit <http://cas.indwes.edu/Student-Life/residence-life/>.

Student Government Organization

Want to know what's going on at IWU? A great way to hear the latest news is to attend the weekly Student Government Organization (SGO) meetings, held at 10 pm on Tuesdays in the Globe Theater. All students are welcome to attend. The Student Government Organization (SGO) represents the total student body on issues and information concerning student welfare and services. The organization's purpose is to promote service and positive welfare of the students. SGO also distributes significant funds to student organizations in support of their mission and activities. SGO is comprised of a president, executive cabinet, student organization representatives, and a senate. Elections are held each spring.

Musical Groups

Each year IWU's Office of Church Relations recruits, trains, and sends out a wide variety of musical ministry and drama teams to minister at churches, Christian schools, youth activities, summer camps, and special events. The Division of Music also offers a variety of opportunities for involvement, including University Chorale, ensembles, and orchestra. For more details, visit these websites:

Scholar Spotlight

Luke Nelson

Age: 18 Year: Sophomore
Hometown: Springfield, IL
Major: Math Education

Life Verses: Titus 3:4-7: "But when the love and kindness of God our Savior appeared, he saved us, not because of righteous things we had done but because of his mercy. He saved us by the washing of rebirth and renewal by the Holy Spirit, whom he poured out on us generously through Jesus Christ our Savior, so that, having been justified by his grace, we might become heirs, having the hope of eternal life."

Ephesians 2:10: "For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do."

What is your favorite aspect of the Honors College so far? Why?

I truly, truly favor the Christian education that the JWHC offers above all else. The incredible growth that I have experienced because of it is completely worthwhile and unbelievably refreshing. I can think of no other place or time in my life that has afforded me such an opportunity as this. Being taught and challenged by such incredible professors who have striven to cultivate an environment conducive to God-centered learning has been, quite frankly, absolutely fantastic. However, I cannot neglect to mention a critical component of this Christian education: the community within the JWHC. Here, one's peers are his and her friends, philosophical and theological conversation-mates, and accountability. In my life, the fellow students (some of whom are honorary!) are of inexpressible value.

What do you love about IWU?

Now, I've only gotten one year under my belt, but I would have to sum up everything I love most about IWU into this: The opportunity it provides. (And it just so happens that the JWHC is one such splendid opportunity!) The key thing to remember here, however, is that opportunities don't become reality unless you take them up on the offer. So, while IWU affords many great opportunities, the rest is up to you. Make the most of Chapel services, praise God for the food in Baldwin, apply yourself to your gen eds, learn to play racquetball, wave at President Smith, reach out to the community with Neighbors, play Euchre in Epworth, join the Math Club, talk and discuss things with upperclassmen, read the assignments, learn how to write a paper well, ask your professors questions, find out what excites you, and then do those exciting things... Perhaps I should have saved this for the "advice" question! Please forgive me; I often get carried away. Which happens to be a perfect segue into the next question!

What do you do in your free time?

I get carried away. It's quite true. I get carried away in conversations, mostly. But I also get carried away thinking about questions posed, helping others understand things, eating, playing with Excel and Geometer's Sketchpad, organizing things, typing responses to questions... You get the picture. But I also enjoy reading, memorizing Bible verses, playing games with family/friends, learning, and racquetball.

Do you have any advice for incoming freshmen?

First: Get over your self. You are not the most important person in the universe; you are not even the most important person in your life. Remember the One who is, and do everything for the Lord, and not for men (or women). As Proverbs says, "Commit to the Lord whatever you do, and your plans will succeed." (Proverbs 16:3). (cont. on page 7)

Laura Wheeler

Age: 20 Year: Junior
Hometown: Marion, IN
Major: Psychology/Intercultural Studies

Favorite verse: James 4:7-10: "Submit yourselves, then, to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Come near to God and he will come near to you. Wash your hands, you sinners, and purify your hearts, you double-minded. Grieve, mourn and wail. Change your laughter to mourning and your joy to gloom. Humble yourselves before the Lord, and he will lift you up."

What is your favorite aspect of the Honors College so far? Why?

The people... This includes not only the students, but also Dr. Riggs, Dr. Ream, Dr. Toland, and Sara. These people are amazing. I have had so many excellent conversations and experiences with these people. It is crazy the amount of experiences and opportunities that I have had in the last two years that have come as a result of the people who make up the Honors College.

What do you love about IWU?

McConn... In addition to providing me with caffeine and a job, McConn is my favorite spot on campus. I can often be found there "doing homework" or meeting friends. Seriously, take advantage of the coffee and come hang out!

What do you do in your free time?

Free time?!?... What is that? Just kidding, during the school year I read, knit, and have really good conversations. I am also on leadership for a student organization called Doulos which focuses on AIDS, human trafficking, hunger, poverty, and war.

Do you have any advice for incoming freshmen?

Be very careful about the amount of pressure that you put on yourself, especially in the first couple of weeks. Allow yourself time to get to know people and take advantage of opportunities that will take you out of your comfort zone.

Second: Focus on God-centered learning. Friends, you are here to learn. But do not leave it simply at that; learn like a Christian. Learn with God, for God, and about God. Hopefully, you will then discover that you have not only gained knowledge, but wisdom. "How much better to get wisdom than gold, to choose understanding better than silver!... Whoever gives heed to instruction prospers, and blessed is he who trusts in the Lord" (Proverbs 16:16, 20). Third: Sit next to Dr. Riggs in World Changers. It's awesome. Also, it indirectly keeps you accountable. Fourth: Smile big, kids.

If Luke could ask you one question, it would be:

"Do you consider your life as something that is most worthily invested in being laid down for others?"

Favorite verse:

James 1:5: "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him."

Hobbies and interests:

I enjoy singing, yodeling, playing videogames, spending time with my dogs, playing Ultimate Frisbee with friends, listening to Baroque music, and reading.

Best high school experience:

One of my best high school experiences was the Wisconsin State Honors Mixed Choir project. I got to go to a three day camp at the University of Wisconsin Green Bay with several of my friends from school and sing with an amazing choir. We later were able to perform in Madison. It was exciting to meet so many talented people from my state and get to know my own classmates better. It was great.

In college, I am most looking forward to:

I am looking forward to the freedom that a college experience gives, and I am also excited to study with other students who are as dedicated as I am.

Most nerdy thing I've ever done:

I argued about whether the piano or harpsichord is the better instrument, I know what LF2M Tank for Scholo means, I've read The Silmarillion three times...

Majors: History and philosophy

Favorite verse:

Micah 6:8: "He has shown you, O man, what is good, and what does the Lord require of you but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God?"

Hobbies and interests:

I love time with family and friends, reading, movies, anything regarding Jane Austen's novels, scrapbooking, sewing.

Best high school experience:

Sitting under the teachers that I had and being able to glean so much from them expounding and adding to the information given in the text.

In college, I am most looking forward to:

The classes and the content therein, meeting people, living amongst fellow brothers and sisters in Christ.

If I could have any superpower:

Invisibility because if there was a bad or threatening situation you could easily get out of it or you could go anywhere without being noticed

Beverage I would be and why:

Probably hot chocolate: It is sweet, warming, and can bring people together.

Major: Elementary Education

Favorite quote:

"In ten years, what will you wish you had done now?"

Hobbies and interests:

MY hobbies and interests include reading, playing non-competitive sports with my friends (soccer, touch football, basketball), watching movies, and lots of music. I also enjoy spending time at Starbucks with any number of people, and I love putt-putting. I am a big people watcher, so any chance to sit on the sidelines and watch people interact I will take.

Best high school experience:

My best high school experience was the internship during my senior year. I interned for a elementary school in a second grade class. It only strengthened my desire to become a teacher. I spent an hour with the children each day, helping them with school work and just spending time with them. I then was able to spend an hour with the teacher after school. I learned so much about the work it takes to be a teacher and all the details that the teacher has to think through for each and every day. It was the most interesting thing I have ever done, and I would trade my left arm for the chance to do it again.

In college, I am most looking forward to:

Independence. I am looking forward to making my own decisions.

One strange thing I did as a child:

The strangest thing I did as a child would be sucking my fingers. I placed my middle finger and my ring finger under my tongue, and my first finger and my pinky finger were placed on my cheeks. This action even moved my front teeth around so much that I had to get braces in middle school.

Favorite verse:

Isaiah 40: 31: "But those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint."

Hobbies and interests:

I enjoy pretty much all sports, both as a spectator and as a participant. I also enjoy spending time with my huge family and making people laugh.

Best high school experience:

My best high school experiences are from my track days — most notably, winning the Illinois Prep Top Times Indoor Classic for the 4x200, and placing 9th at Outdoor State in the 4x200.

In college, I am most looking forward to:

I look forward to meeting a ton of amazing Christians and to being surrounded by them all the time! I also am psyched about running track at IWU!!

Beverage I would be and why:

I would want to be Gatorade, because it's my favorite drink, and almost all professional athletes drink it, so that's my best shot of meeting one face-to-face.

If I could have any superpower:

I would choose to be able to fly, because all the cool superheroes can fly. Plus, in this day and age, cheaper and faster modes of transportation are a hot commodity.

Romans 8:28: "And we know that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose."

Hobbies and interests:

Cheerleading, diving, theater, reading, writing, scrapbooking, missions, traveling

Best high school experience:

Being actively involved in my high school's theatrical productions, my class trip to New York City, my mission trip to Scotland, high school choir tour

In college, I am most looking forward to:

Being a part of the John Wesley Honors College, being a member of the cheerleading team, meeting lots of new people

One strange thing I did as a child:

Since I didn't watch much television as a child, when asked what channel I wanted to watch while getting my teeth cleaned at the dentist, I requested the Weather Channel (it was the only channel I really knew).

Beverage I would be and why:

Water: It's a necessity of life.

Romans 12:1 & 2: "Therefore, I urge you, brothers, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God — this is your spiritual act of worship. Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is — his good, pleasing, and perfect will."

Hobbies and interests:

Reading, kayaking, nature photography, missions work, learning Spanish

Best high school experience:

I went on a missions trip to Guatemala.

In college, I am most looking forward to:

I look forward to learning and growing academically and spiritually. I am also excited about the community at IWU and the opportunities to be involved in it.

One strange thing I did as a child:

I had pet snakes, a salamander, and other treasures my dad brought home from his fishing trips.

Favorite quote:

Wow, that's a hard one to answer!! There are so many words and verses that have and continue to impact me... the first quotation that came to mind was one from a song of a band that I love: "Open wide my door, my Lord, my Lord, open wide my door, do whatever makes me love you more" and also "If I come without a thing, then I come with all I need."

Hobbies and interests:

I love traveling, being in other cultures and countries; I love being outside, riding my bike, running, walking, climbing trees, being barefoot, picnicking, camping, cloud and star gazing, etc...I love music, singing, playing the piano and guitar; I love, love people, so anything that has to do with interacting and talking with people is usually something that I'll love; I like to write and read, I love movies; I love art, especially painting; I love working with my hands, making things...I feel like I'm rambling now, sorry! But I honestly love a lot of things!

In college, I am most looking forward to:

I'm looking forward to what I'll learn, both in and outside of the classroom; I'm expecting to grow a lot, and in a lot of ways, so I guess what I'm looking forward to the most (perhaps corny as it sounds) is becoming more like Jesus through new people and a new place! I am very excited to learn more about how to love people through my classes and the material I'll be studying; and honestly, I'm also very excited to be in the same place as my sister! She is so wonderful, and it's been three years since we've lived in the same place!

Leadership Spotlight: Cory Sprunger

Cory Sprunger, a John Wesley Scholar from the Class of 2011, will serve as the president of IWU's Student Government Organization next year.

What is your favorite aspect of the Honors College so far? Why?

Most people would probably say they like the classes. It's almost an automatic response. Although I do enjoy the small and personal feel of the classes, the fellow students are by far the best asset the Honors College possesses. The people are fun, have a deep passion for the same principles and values that I hold dear, and are some of my best friends. I think it is important to make sure you do not get "sucked in" to Honors College and only have friends from there, but some of the best friendships I have and will forge will be from the JWHC.

What do you love most about IWU?

The student body. As the Student Body President, my main and most primary objective is to represent the students of IWU. I could not ask for a better student body to represent. This student body is a hard-working, fun, and incredibly spiritual group of people. I have never seen a group of 3,000 students be so fired-up for the Kingdom of God and engage God's calling on their lives with all their mind and heart. I love the students.

What do you do in your free time?

I enjoy politics. Politics is life. Without politics we do not have freedoms, the rule of law, order, security, and anything else you can think of. I do a lot of stuff in this arena. But politics is what I do, not who I am. I like fishing, backpacking far distances, playing tennis, meeting new people, and finding adventures to investigate.

What do you hope to accomplish as SGO president?

I want to make Student Government relevant. In the past, Student Government has been a group that does a lot, but nobody knows about it. This year, you will know that Student Government exists, and we want to make it better able to serve you. Our campaign theme last year was "Your Voice." We promised in the campaign that we would use this year to fix Student Government. We want to empower senators (we will come back to this), make Student Government more accessible, and increase the awareness of what we do.

You should all consider running for Senate. As a freshman, I did, and it was one of the best decisions I made. Every dorm has two senators to represent it. You need to get involved in stuff early on. As a senator, you will get to meet with administrators and vice presidents of the university on a regular basis and voice the concerns of your fellow students. You get an inside perspective on the way that this university operates and a front row view to watch it storm to new places. Special responsibilities, privileges, and opportunities will be presented to Student Government senators. It is a really neat job.

Do you have any advice for freshmen?

Get involved. Do not fall into the opposite trap though, and think that since you are out of the house now, you can freak out and go off the deep end. Keep your head about you, and have some fun!

Introducing the New JWHC Program Coordinator

Greetings, everyone! My name is Sara Scheunemann, and I am the new program coordinator for the John Wesley Honors College. I am a graduate of Marquette University, where I majored in English and Classics, and an “almost” graduate of the University of Dayton, where I will earn my master’s degree in higher education administration this August. In between my undergraduate and graduate studies, I worked for several years in a variety of administrative roles with InterVarsity Christian Fellowship in Madison, Wisconsin. Wisconsin is my home state and still holds a special place in my heart. Before starting graduate school, I also lived for a year in Duluth, Minnesota, simply because I wanted to be closer to the outdoor delights of beautiful Lake Superior.

When not serving as program coordinator for the JWHC, I am likely to be found curled up with a book, scribbling in my journal, spending time with family and friends, or hiking in a national or state park (like Indiana’s Turkey Run State Park, featured in the picture). This summer will take me to Maine for a week of hiking and camping in Acadia and Baxter State Park. I am also particularly interested in the spiritual development of college students, a subject that I researched for my master’s thesis.

A few other random facts you may (or may not!) want to know about me:

- I became an auntie for the first time in January and think my niece, Cadence Rose, is the cutest baby ever.
- I’ve driven the Alaska Highway. Not all by myself, thankfully! I read the seventh Harry Potter book and watched the wildlife when it wasn’t my turn at the wheel.
- I own a pair of snowshoes and am wondering if I’ll have a chance to use them in Marion.
- My house was destroyed by a tornado when I was almost four years old. By God’s grace, my family survived.
- I am excited to have joined the JWHC — and to be sharing my “freshman” year on the job with you!
