Guard the Mission
Our Mission

Indiana Wesleyan University

is a Christ-centered academic community committed to changing the world by developing students in character, scholarship, and leadership.
Dr. Henry Smith, the eighth President of Indiana Wesleyan University, looks back on the successes of his first year as President – a year that he calls “one of the most special in University history.”

Indiana Wesleyan University is an evangelical Christian University that was founded in 1920 and is committed to liberal arts and professional education. Values and faith are emphasized in all areas of campus life.

While Indiana Wesleyan University focused on its new president in 2006-07, the spotlight also shone on students, faculty and alumni who were honored for personal and professional achievements.

Two new residence halls and a much-needed Academic Building greeted Indiana Wesleyan University students as they returned for the 2006-07 school year. And IWU now has 14 regional campuses.

Ron and Marjorie Jones graduated from Indiana Wesleyan University in the 1930s, and Clark Vandeventer graduated almost 70 years later. They share a common bond as faithful donors to their alma mater.

A Year in the Life of IWU

The Institution and Mission
“As I become President of Indiana Wesleyan University, my primary goal and responsibility is to guard the mission of this great University. The heart and soul of that mission is to protect the spiritual heritage. I commit myself to use all of the presidential influence with which God has gifted me to prevent Indiana Wesleyan University from ever drifting from its primary purpose and losing its spiritual moorings.”
As I began my tenure as the eighth President of Indiana Wesleyan University on July 1, 2006, my wife Teresa and I requested special prayer for my first year in office.

During these past 12 months, we have sensed the presence of the Lord on our campus, and we thank you for praying for Indiana Wesleyan University.

We also found strength and guidance from the words of Proverbs 3:5-6, which were our verses for the 2006-07 academic year:

Trust in the Lord with all of your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make your paths straight.

The past year has been a remarkable journey for Teresa and me personally, but especially for the University. Please walk with us in the pages that follow as we review some of the victories and milestones that we were honored to celebrate, to cheer, and to rejoice!

Celebrate with us the national recognition that IWU received from the Best Christian Workplaces Institute and from the U.S. News & World Report annual listing of America’s Best Colleges.

Cheer with us (we’re still hoarse from cheering) the accomplishments of our athletic teams in national competition.

Rejoice with us for the record number of students that God entrusted to us and for the dedicated faculty, staff, and administrators that so faithfully serve our students in all three colleges. For the 20th consecutive year, IWU had a record number of students.

Above all, a primary purpose of this 2006-07 Annual Report is to acknowledge and say thank you to the thousands of people who so graciously and generously provide financial support to the University.

To each of you, whose name is listed beginning on page 20, we express our deepest gratitude for helping make another year at Indiana Wesleyan University a wonderful success. Please pray that God will continue to bless this university.

We asked that you pray specifically that I would:

Hear the voice of the Lord.
Have the courage to do what is right.
Receive the anointing of the Holy Spirit for the work that lies ahead.
Indiana Wesleyan University is an evangelical Christian comprehensive university that was founded in 1920 and is committed to liberal arts and professional education. The University received national recognition this year when it was ranked by U.S. News & World Report as one of the top master’s universities in the Midwest. A survey by the Best Christian Workplaces Institute also showed that IWU was one of America’s Best Christian Workplaces.
IWU is organized into three colleges:

- College of Arts and Sciences:
  Enrollment of 3,050 with 747 first-time freshmen and a residential population of 2,382. More than 70 undergraduate majors are offered on the University's main campus in Marion, Indiana.

- College of Graduate Studies:
  Enrollment of 748 with master's programs in Counseling, Ministry and Nursing, as well as a doctoral program in Organizational Leadership.

- College of Adult and Professional Studies:
  Enrollment of 10,958 with adult students enrolled at IWU regional sites throughout Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky, as well as online. Almost 3,800 students are pursuing graduate coursework in Business, Education and Healthcare through this College, as well.

IWU Online, the University's innovative Internet-based delivery system, currently serves more than 3,000 degree-seeking students.

The University's visually striking 300-acre main campus in Marion is about an hour south of Fort Wayne and an hour north of Indianapolis. To serve adult students, the University has Indiana regional education centers in Columbus, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis (north and south), Kokomo, Merrillville, Shelbyville and Greenwood.

The University also has four education centers in Ohio: Cincinnati, Cleveland (east and west) and Dayton; and two centers in Kentucky: Lexington and Louisville. By offering classes at more than 120 locations throughout the Midwest, Indiana Wesleyan has earned a reputation as a national leader in adult education.

During the past two decades, more than $200 million in new construction and renovation have transformed the University's physical plant into an ultra-modern, student-focused, high-tech campus.

The following crowning facilities on the Marion campus represent the University's commitment to holistic student formation:

- Jackson Library, the academic heart of the University, houses over 142,000 bound volumes, 220,000 micro formats, 950 journal subscriptions and 75,000 full-text online periodical resources. The library also is home to the University's "Society of World Changers," which was established to recognize prominent Americans who are the salt and light of their generation by virtue of positively engaging culture through excellence in their chosen professions.

- Williams Prayer Chapel, the spiritual soul of the University, provides a peaceful, aesthetically appealing sanctuary for personal prayer, reflection and meditation.

- The Student Center, the social hub of the University, offers a full range of student life services and features including a cinema, coffee house, entertainment center and dining options. A recent $16 million expansion renovated 20,000 existing square feet and added 66,000 square feet of new space.

- A multi-purpose Recreation and Wellness Center, the physical core of the University, features multiple gymnasiums, weight rooms, a swimming pool, climbing wall and other personal and corporate conditioning amenities.

- The Phillippe Performing Arts Center, the cultural center of the University, seats 1,200 for chapel, concerts, recitals and theatrical performances. This acoustically engineered building was awarded the Gold Citation for exceptional architectural design.

In addition to new construction, the stately John Wesley Administration Building, built in 1894, has been completely restored and stands as a symbolic connection to the University's rich past.

With a Fall 2007 enrollment of 14,756, Indiana Wesleyan University is the largest institution in the Council for Christian Colleges & Universities and the largest private university in Indiana.
When Indiana Wesleyan University administrators and trustees gathered at the beginning of the new millennium to draft a new mission statement for the University, the first word that came into focus was “Character.” We firmly believe that the primary purpose of an education is to build ‘Character.’ That is why, with God’s blessing, ‘Character’ is – and always will be – the No. 1 goal in the University’s mission statement.
Indiana Wesleyan University’s mission is to prepare students to change the world for Jesus Christ through servant-leadership, professional excellence and personal devotion. The University encourages its students, faculty, staff and administrators to pursue Christ-likeness in all areas of life.

The University offers a transformational learning environment where students are equipped for lifelong learning and service. In its effort to offer a well-rounded liberal arts education, the University focuses on biblical principles. Values and faith are emphasized in and out of the classroom, extending to all areas of campus life. The campus community gathers for chapel three times a week.

Like the impressive physical growth, the University’s academic reputation continues to become top tier. The University employs more than 200 full-time faculty members, most of whom hold earned doctorates. The University faculty is highly qualified, annually receiving national and international recognition for research, publishing, creativity and performances. Many hold national leadership positions in their respective fields. In recent years:

- The New Media Consortium recognized IWU as a world leader in its innovative approaches to the use of technology. IWU is the first member institution of the Council for Christian Colleges & Universities to be selected. President and CEO of the New Media Consortium, Dr. Larry Johnson, identifies Indiana Wesleyan University as “a place where smart, creative people are devising innovative solutions to challenges we all face in teaching and learning. The dedication to excellence here is palpable, and students and faculty are the clear beneficiaries.”
- IWU was one of 12 independent colleges chosen nationally to receive the Foundation of Excellence Award from the Policy Center on the First Year of College. As a result, IWU is helping develop programs and best practices that many institutions across the country will view as the gold standard for outstanding first-year programming.
- The grade-point average of the incoming freshman class has risen to 3.5 and retention (freshman to sophomore) has jumped from 57 to 80 percent.
- The John Wesley Honors College helps attract and retain academically gifted students.
- The Center for Life Calling and Leadership has developed a national reputation for excellence grounded in groundbreaking research and innovative application.
- Two faculty members have received Fulbright research grants.
- Faculty members help students integrate faith and learning, resulting in a robust Christian worldview. The University offers 78 undergraduate majors, including Business Administration, Communication Arts, Education, Fine Art, Nursing, and Religion and Philosophy. Six new majors were added in 2006. Graduate programs are offered in Business, Counseling, Education, Ministry and Nursing. A doctoral program in Organizational Leadership was launched in 2004 and presently includes 67 doctoral interns.

The University has 14 intercollegiate sports teams and participates in the Mid-Central College Conference (MCC), National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), and the National Christian College Athletic Association (NCCAA). A state-of-the-art, 65-acre outdoor athletic complex features baseball, softball, soccer, and tennis facilities, as well as a world-class, Olympic-caliber Mondo track. Recent teams have won national championships in men’s golf, women’s tennis, women’s basketball and women’s indoor track.

The school has more than 50 clubs and student organizations, which offer energizing extracurricular activities for students. Exceptional programming enables students to tap into existing talents and uncover new abilities and strengths they’ve yet to imagine.
July 2006

Dr. Henry Smith takes office as IWU’s eighth president – two years after he arrived on campus as the University’s first Executive Vice President and a year after the Board of Trustees unanimously named him President-elect.

Dr. Jim Barnes becomes IWU’s first chancellor, after serving 19 years as President.

Carl L. Shepherd, Senior Vice President of Indiana Farm Bureau Insurance, is named chairman of the IWU Board of Trustees. Mr. Shepherd, a 1974 IWU graduate, has served as a trustee since 1989.

Construction begins on a 78,000-square-foot Sports Complex and 12 lighted tennis courts. Both facilities are located on the 65-acre outdoor athletic complex at the south end of campus.

August 2006

Henry Smith presides at his first two graduations since becoming President and presents diplomas to 1,200 graduates. Tom Arington, Chairman and CEO of Cincinnati-based Scion Companies, speaks at both ceremonies.

Terry Porter, Associate Professor of Mathematics and Women’s Tennis Coach, is honored for 40 years of service during the annual back-to-school convocation. Tom Sloan, Associate Director of Admissions, receives 30-year award. Rod Crossman, Assistant Professor of Art; Pat Fields, Secretary in Graduate Education; and Betty Porter, Assistant Professor of English, get 25-year rocking chairs.

IWU is listed as one of the top master’s universities in the Midwest, according to U.S. News & World Report’s 2007 edition of “America’s Best Colleges.”

September 2006

Fall classes begin with a record enrollment for the 19th consecutive year. Traditional enrollment on the Marion campus climbs to 2,935 students, and Adult and Graduate Studies enrollment reaches 10,351 students. A record 2,330 students are living on campus. Forty-five states and 16 countries are represented in the 2006-07 student body.

The 17th annual Jack Colescott Athletic Scholarship Golf Tourney attracts 200 golfers and raises $73,500, bringing the total to $770,000 since the tourney started.

Anna Shults, who received her Master of Arts in Education degree from IWU in 2000, is named Indiana’s Teacher of the Year and becomes Indiana’s nominee for National Teacher of the Year. She is a third-grade teacher at a public school near Indianapolis.

Design Collaborative, a Fort Wayne architecture and engineering firm, wins an award from American School & University magazine for the design of IWU’s Lodges, housing which opened for upperclass students in August 2005.
October 2006

Dr. Henry Smith is formally inaugurated as IWU President as part of Homecoming weekend activities.

Four IWU graduates are honored as Outstanding Alumni during Homecoming 2006 weekend. The honorees are James Luttrull Jr. ’78, Grant County (Indiana) Prosecuting Attorney; Dr. Steve DeNeff ’81, senior pastor of College Wesleyan Church in Marion; Allen Pope ’75, a lawyer who heads the Medicaid Fraud Control Unit for the Indiana Attorney General; and Michael Cliff ’91, principal of High Point (North Carolina) Christian Academy.

IWU announces it will begin a transition-to-nursing program in July on the Marion campus. The course of study is for people with bachelor’s degrees who want to earn a second degree in nursing.

November 2006

IWU hosts the Grant County Veterans’ Day observance, during which 10 World War II veterans receive long-awaited Bronze Stars.

IWU receives $481,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Energy to expand nursing education programs in Indiana. Part of the grant is used to upgrade and expand nursing facilities on the Marion campus; part is used for first-ever nursing laboratory in regional campus in Greenwood.

December 2006

The Rev. Kerry Kind, General Director of Education and the Ministry for The Wesleyan Church, speaks at three graduation ceremonies and receives an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree. More than 1,500 students get diplomas.

Dr. Willem Van De Merwe, who teaches physics at IWU, receives one of a few fellowships granted annually by the U.S. State Department. He will be a visiting scholar in Washington, D.C., during the 2007-08 academic year and will be assigned to the Bureau of International Security and Nonproliferation, which reports to the Under Secretary for Arms Control and International Security.

January 2007

The Merrillville Education Center opens in Northwest Indiana, near Chicago, becoming IWU’s 13th regional campus – and the seventh in Indiana. IWU has held classes in the area for 15 years in leased facilities.

IWU Nursing Division learns that 95 percent of nursing students who graduated in 2006 passed the National Council Licensure Exam for Registered Nurses on their first try. Nationally, only 73.92 percent of students pass the exam on their first attempt.

Dr. Bud Bence, Vice President for Academic Affairs, receives the Distinguished Alumni Award from Asbury Theological Seminary. Dr. Bence received his Master’s in Divinity degree from Asbury in 1969.

IWU’s 12th Annual Scholarship Telesale raises $130,000, bringing the total to $1.3 million since the event began. Merchants and friends of IWU donate merchandise, which is auctioned during a five-night live telecast on IWU’s campus TV station.
February 2007

Women’s basketball team finishes regular season undefeated, goes on to win Mid-Central College Conference Tourney and receives automatic bid to NAIA Division II National Tourney.

With Sweet 16 and Elite 8 finishes in recent years, the Lady Wildcats would not be strangers to the national spotlight. They would enter the tournament with a 33-0 record, the No. 1 seed and with five seniors who were ready to cap off one of the best athletic team performances by any IWU class in history.

Men’s basketball team claims share of Mid-Central College Conference regular season championship, finishes as runner-up in MCC tourney and receives at-large bid to NAIA Division II National Tourney.

March 2007

IWU Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) team wins Cleveland (Ohio) SIFE USA Regional Competition, earning the right to compete at the national level in May in Dallas. During the 2006-07 school year, the team organized 13 projects in the Marion community. Dr. Harriet Rojas is the sponsor for the team.

Dr. Benjamin Carson, Director of Pediatric Neurosurgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, was the fourth person inducted into IWU’s Society of World Changers. Dr. Carson, who grew up in Detroit’s inner city and struggled through elementary school, overcame those challenges to graduate from Yale University and go on to medical school.

With victories over College of Saint Joseph, Tabor College, Hastings College, Cedarville University and College of the Ozarks, the women’s basketball team captured the 2007 NAIA Division II championship in Sioux City, Iowa. Although it was a team effort that led to a perfect 38-0 season, individual awards were handed out to several Wildcats, including senior Elizabeth Howarth, NAIA Tournament MVP, and Coach Steve Brooks, NAIA Division II Women’s Coach of the Year.

April 2007

More than 1,700 students receive degrees at three graduation ceremonies but have to share the spotlight with two long-time professors. Dr. Wilbur Williams, who has taught religion at IWU for 40 years, speaks at commencement. And his wife, Dr. Ardelia Williams, receives an Honorary Doctor of Fine Arts degree. Ardelia Williams headed the IWU Art Department for 35 years until her retirement in 2002.

Five graduating women share valedictorian honors at graduation with perfect 4.0 grade-point averages. They are Krista Brinkman, Sweetser, Indiana; Allison Carr, Hebron, Indiana; Sarah Beth Hockenheimer, Centerville, Ohio; Ashley Kelly, Winchester, Indiana; and Elisabeth Hennip Laudermilch, Rome, Pennsylvania.

The Sojourn, IWU’s campus newspaper, wins 21 awards and is named newspaper of the year by the Indiana Collegiate Press Association. Adam Wren and Nick Rambo, both seniors, were the two top editors of the newspaper. Dr. Denise Ferguson is the advisor.
Dr. Todd Voss, IWU Vice President for Student Development for 18 years, is named Executive Vice President, effective July 1. He will oversee three areas of the University: Student Development, University Technology, and Operations and Facilities.

Lonnie Vandeventer is named Alumni Director for students who have graduated through adult education programs. His appointment marks the first time IWU has had two alumni directors.

May 2007

IWU’s Upward Bound receives funding for another four years – at $285,903 a year – from the U.S. Department of Education. The program provides skills and motivation to increase the rate at which educationally disadvantaged students complete high school and attend college. The program, which IWU started 12 years ago, serves 60 students.

Two IWU professors with more than 40 years experience announce their retirement. Robert Oatis, Coordinator of the Criminal Justice Department, began teaching part-time in 1978 and became a full-time professor 10 years later. Dr. Susan Frase, Professor of Education, joined the IWU faculty in 1995.

Michael Moffitt is named Vice President for Student Development, six years after he joined IWU as Dean for Mentoring and Accountability. A former wide receiver for the Green Bay Packers, Mr. Moffitt is married to Latrese Moffitt, IWU’s Director of Multicultural Student Services.

The Greenwood Education Center opens south of Indianapolis, becoming IWU’s 14th regional campus – and the eighth in Indiana. Greenwood is the first regional campus to include a nursing laboratory.

The Federal Communications Commission agrees to transfer the license of WCWC-FM from College Wesleyan Church to IWU. The low-power station, which went on the air in 2002, is now located in IWU’s new Academic Building where it will operate as a community service and educational training facility for students.

Dr. Howard Noggle, whose family name had been associated with Indiana Wesleyan University since its founding, died in June. Dr. Noggle’s father and grandfather were instrumental in founding IWU, and Howard devoted his life to the institution.

Building for the Future

Indiana Wesleyan University continued to expand its physical facilities during the 2006-07 fiscal year with four major building projects on the Marion campus – and the addition of two regional education centers.

- Two new residence halls, joined by a common lobby, welcomed 310 women. The halls were designed as a mentoring complex. One hall is for freshmen and will be connected to another hall for upper-class women. Many of the upper-class women have signed on as “Journey Mentors” for the freshmen women.

- The IWU Division of Behavioral Sciences and the Division of Modern Languages, Literature and Communication – including the campus radio and TV stations – moved into a new academic building. The three-story, 66,000-square-foot facility will alleviate a growing need for additional classroom and faculty office space.

- A new 70,000-square-foot Sports Complex will serve as an indoor practice facility for track and field, soccer, baseball, softball and tennis teams. The complex also includes a lighted, 12-court outdoor tennis center.

- Two new townhouses on the Marion campus will provide housing for 76 upper-class students.

- The Merrillville Education Center is IWU’s first regional campus in Northwest Indiana. The two-story, 27,000-square-foot facility is located at the intersection of two major highways, 50 miles southeast of Chicago. IWU has been offering classes for 15 years in leased facilities in the Merrillville area.

- The Greenwood Education Center, just south of Indianapolis, is IWU’s third regional campus in the Greater Indianapolis area. The Greenwood facility is the first of IWU’s regional campuses to include a nursing laboratory.

The Board of Trustees, at its April 2006 meeting, approved the construction of a 3,800-seat chapel/auditorium. In addition to serving as a chapel, the new building will provide assembly space for large campus and community events, such as graduations, conferences, lectures and concerts.

Chapel services now are held in the 1,200-seat Phillippe Performing Arts Center, which opened in 1996. Initially the auditorium seated the entire student body in one chapel service, but two services have been held since 1998 – and both are nearing capacity. Resident students are required to attend chapel services three times a week.
One of the Best Christian Workplaces

When Dr. Henry Smith took office as President of Indiana Wesleyan University on July 1, 2006, one of his stated goals was to make the University “one of the best places to work anywhere.”

A few months later, IWU was named one of the three Best Christian Workplaces in America by the Best Christian Workplaces Institute, a research-based organizational and human resources consulting firm.

The award was based on results of a survey that was designed by the Institute. Seventy-three percent of IWU’s 800 employees participated in the survey. The survey produced the following “Top 10” list of things that workers found most favorable about working at IWU:

- Satisfied with retirement plans.
- Over past year, IWU has met performance goals.
- Would recommend IWU as a good place to work.
- Quality of services IWU offers satisfies those we serve.
- Satisfied with medical/health plan.
- IWU provides good job security for employees who perform well.
- IWU has a winning strategy for meeting needs of those we serve.
- Over past year, IWU has improved for the better.
- Satisfied with opportunities to use our spiritual gifts in our jobs.
- In general, we like working for IWU.

“We believe the Christian workplace should set the standard as the best, most effective place to work in the world,” a spokesperson for the Best Christian Workplaces Institute said. “Our desire is to encourage Christian workplaces to improve their impact and visibility.”

The Institute has surveyed 400-plus Christian organizations, with more than 40,000 employees, during the last four years.

One of America’s Best Colleges

Indiana Wesleyan University was ranked 31st among Midwest Master’s Universities in the 2008 edition of “America’s Best Colleges,” which is published by U.S. News & World Report. A year ago, IWU was ranked 62nd among the 138 master’s universities in the Midwest.

“Our steady improvement in the U.S. News rankings indicates that we are doing a good job of putting in place the resources to accomplish our mission,” said Dr. Don Sprowl, Director of Institutional Research at IWU. “Direct measures of educational success, such as the Collegiate Learning Assessment, prove that we are indeed accomplishing our mission.”

Master’s universities, according to U.S. News, offer a full range of undergraduate and master’s programs, but few, if any, doctoral programs. IWU has 11 master’s programs and one doctoral program.

There are 574 master’s universities in the country. U.S. News ranks colleges in categories that are based on a framework established by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.
The Oxford English Dictionary defines a benefactor as ‘one who gives friendly aid,’ and we can’t think of a better way to define the friends of Indiana Wesleyan University whose patterns of faithful giving are profiled on the pages that follow. They are a representative sample of thousands of other IWU benefactors.

Herb & Donna Rickert
Whether they are on the beach in Manistee, Michigan, or at their home near Detroit, the Rickerts demonstrate a deep and abiding love for God, each other, their family – and their extended family of students and friends at IWU. Herb serves as a member of the President’s Advisory Council on Excellence (PACE) and is also a member of the IWU Building Committee. Donna always has a smile and is a warm and gracious host.

When Herb retired, the Rickerts formed a family foundation. They always have had a soft place in their hearts for IWU students who, without financial assistance, would be unable to attend IWU. Through the years, many students have received scholarships through the Rickert Family Scholarship Fund.

The Rickerts have chosen a non-endowed vehicle funded via gifts from their family foundation. Other IWU friends have chosen an endowed scholarship, which provides an income stream for student scholarships in perpetuity. Either way, students are helped, and God is glorified!

Gerald & Dorothy Smeenge
Gerald (Jerry) and Dorothy met at Marion College and later were married. Their education at Marion College took them down similar career paths of teaching. Jerry chose to be an art teacher, while Dorothy opted to be an elementary school teacher. They devoted their lives to education, teaching in schools and colleges in Indiana and Michigan.

When Jerry and Dorothy decided to retire in 1993, they bought a home in Sun City, Arizona, and lived there for 13 years. Because of their desire to be closer to family, they sold the Arizona property and moved to a retirement community in Zeeland, Michigan.

The dilemma they faced was what to do with the money from the sold property.
Dorothy specifically remembers God speaking to her and urging her to call IWU for advice. Since their immediate need was income, a gift annuity was established to provide a stream of income that was superior to other options. The annuity also offered the peace of mind that the income would continue for their collective lifetimes.

Their secondary interest was helping with tuition, so a scholarship was established to accept the residual from the annuity, which will provide support for an elementary education student and an art student.

After implementing the plan, Dorothy held the scholarship in her hands and lifted it toward God. She prayed for God’s blessing upon the scholarship and the lives of the young people it would impact.

David & Allene Blanchard

David is an astute businessman. Through the years, God has blessed David and Allene’s financial investments. Appreciated real estate provided an avenue for the Blanchards to fulfill a lifetime goal to provide an endowed chair in physics at IWU.

David and Allene gifted an apartment complex to IWU, and the sale of this complex provides the financial means, in perpetuity, to support the research and academic pursuits of our most outstanding leaders in our physics department. In 2004, Dr. Willem Van De Merwe was appointed to fill the Blanchard Chair of Physics and Mathematics. Dr. Van De Merwe is on sabbatical for the 2007-08 academic year, serving as a visiting scholar for the U.S. State Department in Washington, D.C.

Through the establishment of the Blanchard Chair, IWU was able to maximize the skills of an outstanding educator who is a leader in his field and truly a world changer.

The Blanchard Chair has strengthened the academic program of IWU and at the same time, has had a global impact!

Jack Colescott

Jack is recognized for his lifelong dedication and service to generations of Grant County youth. Because of his belief that value can be found in every person, his efforts and teaching prepared many young people to achieve their dreams.

In collaboration with IWU, Jack worked with the IWU Annual Fund staff to found the Jack Colescott Athletic Scholarship Golf Tournament. The goal of the tournament is to raise much-needed funds for Grant County athletes who attend IWU and participate in sports.

Through the Annual Fund, proceeds from the Colescott Tournament are disseminated through athletic scholarships and institutional aid for students. At the end of the 17th annual tournament in September 2006, Jack remarked how happy he was to see the positive impact the tournament and the Annual Fund are having in helping students who pass through the IWU campus and are realizing their dreams.

Clark & Monica Vandeveerer

Clark, a 2002 IWU graduate, works with the Young America’s Foundation and is currently the Director of Reagan Ranch Development and Supporter Relations at the Reagan Ranch Center in Santa Barbara, California.

At the Reagan Ranch Center, Clark is responsible for communicating the mission of Young America’s Foundation to its loyal supporters who are the backbone of the conservative movement in the United States. He has individually hosted more visitors to the Reagan Ranch than anyone and travels the country helping to engage philanthropic support for the Young America’s Foundation.

As an IWU student, Clark interned with Young America’s Foundation for two summers and accepted a full-time job with the Foundation upon graduation.

He also served as Student Government president and was instrumental in helping to bring to IWU several conservative leaders, including Dinesh D’Souza, Star Parker and Lt. Col. Oliver North.

Today, Clark is a member of the President’s Advisory Council on Excellence (PACE) at IWU and works diligently to support his alma mater.

“There is no dollar amount I could have paid or could give today that could show my appreciation,” says Clark. “What I can say about IWU is much deeper than ‘it helped me get somewhere’ More than helping me get somewhere, IWU helped me be someone.”

Clark appreciates the three qualities outlined in the University’s mission. “Character, Scholarship, and Leadership – and it starts with Character – that’s what I got at IWU,” he says. “I learned as much from my professors as I watched them live their lives as I did listening to them in the classroom. I learned as much from my fellow classmates as we struggled through life’s basic questions as I did in late-night study sessions preparing for a Dr. [Glenn] Martin exam. Yes, I am forever indebted to Indiana Wesleyan University, and I’ll continue giving to IWU of whatever meager wealth, wisdom, work or wallop that I have in hopes that my small contributions will in some way impact the lives of students both today and tomorrow.”

Clark and his wife, Monica, live in Goleta, California, near Santa Barbara. Their first child, Jackson Wayne, was born November 2.
Ron remembers the first time he laid eyes on Marjorie. She was waiting tables and wearing a green beret and green suit. He told a friend, “That girl over there is the girl I am going to marry!”

Marjorie recalls the day she first met Ron but, according to Marjorie, “It took a couple of years for him to wear me down.”

In 1934, as a senior at Marion College, Ron assisted with the athletic teams. He recalls one occasion when he had only 10 cents left to his name; he used the money for trolley fare to go to church. While there, someone came up to him and said, “God told me to give you this dollar.” Such is the lifetime walk of faith of Ron and Marjorie Jones.

According to Ron, “Money is not ours anyway. It all belongs to God, but we have the joy of giving it away. So, Marjorie and I choose to send it on ahead because we can’t take it with us.”

In February, Ron joined other IWU friends for the University’s annual Florida golf event. On the last hole of the last round, Ron put in a 12-foot putt for a birdie! Pretty good for a 94-year-old!

Ron and Marjorie have chosen to give a substantial gift to IWU while providing for their daughter through the vehicle of a gift annuity. We are proud of these outstanding IWU alumni and their lifetimes of faithful service to the Lord and IWU.

“Money is not ours anyway. It all belongs to God, but we have the joy of giving it away. So, Marjorie and I choose to send it on ahead because we can’t take it with us.”

—Ron and Marjorie Jones
Dear Friends,

As you read through this year’s Annual Report, I hope you get a sense that there’s an exciting story unfolding here on the campus of Indiana Wesleyan University.

In fact, we tell prospective students and their families that IWU is a place where sons and daughters can come and write their life story. That they can spend their college years taking inventory of their passions, talents and dreams. That they can take advantage of the innovative programs and the expert faculty that will help them write their story. That here on this campus they will find the Author and Finisher of their faith, the Author and Finisher of each student’s compelling life story.

In the following pages, you will see a list of distinguished and giving friends who help write our stories and make each chapter possible with financial sacrifices.

If your name is on this list, we sincerely thank you for your role. You are one of the main characters in a story that we pray will change the world.

Thanks for your friendship,

Dr. Brian Simmons

2006-07 VERSE OF THE YEAR

Trust in the Lord with all of your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make your paths straight.

Proverbs 3:5-6
