Finals Stress

We are almost to the end of the Fall semester, which means that exams are right around the corner. As the semester comes to an end, we would like to encourage students that if they have any questions, they should meet with their professor before Friday, December 6.

For many students, exams are a stressful time that consists of a lot of late night study sessions and last minute cramming. We want to encourage you to slow down and take a breath. Before Exam Week, students should also verify the times for all of their exams to ensure they do not miss them! Here are a few tips and strategies to survive finals week.

- Attend Review Sessions
- Create your own study guide
- Create study groups
- Take Breaks
- Stay well-rested

When the exam is over, learn from your experiences in the class and prepare yourself for what is next. We hope that you all have a wonderful Christmas break and can't wait to see you all again for the start of the Spring semester.

PROGRAM SPOTLIGHT: BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Our Business Administration program provides a broad-based education in the theories, principles, and practices of modern business. It is a program that is easy to pair with another discipline, but also very beneficial for students of other majors to enroll in. The Business Administration major allows students to get an overall background in business that will help in any future career. Students enrolled in the program learn management, business communications, accounting, finance, economic, and marketing skills that they can use. With these skills, students will have increased career flexibility and job versatility. They will also benefit by being able to understand legal and financial documents, and consumers and marketplaces. Student will also be able to gain useful skills such as problem solving, critical thinking, and effective communication. Most importantly, students will learn how to become ethical leaders when they enter the workplace.
